HAVAS

Paris, 4th—M. Mazeau, formerly Minister of Justice, has been named first President of the Court of Cassation of Paris.

Last night, in the Deputies, a Radical member of the Left questioned Government about the resignation of M. Constans. Premier Tirard explained, and the House passed a vote of confidence by 249 to 200.

Lisbon, 4th—Rather serious riots have occurred in Letubal, but order was restored almost immediately.

Paris, 4th (evening)—In political circles it is said that, in spite of last night's vote of confidence, the Cabinet is not secure, and further Ministerial changes are looked for.

GALVESTON.

Lisbon, 3rd—The students threaten to assault Mr. Petre, British Minister. They have formed a League, the members of which bind themselves to attack him. Their reason for this is the refusal of the Government to withdraw Mr. Petre's exequatur.

Rome, 3rd—This being the twelfth anniversary of the Pope's accession to the Tiara, a Grand Mass was celebrated in honor of the event.

Paris, 4th—The Government has received advices from the Governor of Senegale stating that the King of Dahomy's forces had attacked a French detachment at Atzaso. The French repulsed them, killing and wounding a hundred. It is said Government will annex Dahomy to the French possessions in Africa.

Berlin, 4th—Election riots have taken place in Duisburg. The police charged with swords. Many arrests.

On the result of the second scrutiny at Dortmund being declared, there was a Socialist riot. Stones were thrown at the police, and the latter charged the mob with swords and dispersed it. Thirty arrests were made.

Calcutta, 4th—In spite of strict orders telegraphed from the Indian Department in reference to sanitary precautions, the health of the expeditionary troops in Chin Lusai is not improved. Of a thousand Punjaub Coolies sent from Calcutta to reinforce the Chin column, 850 of them were dead or in hospital before the column was 48 hours in the hills. This mortality is attributed to the cruel neglect of the military authorities at Calcutta, who sent the men to the scene of action without tents, or any shelter whatever. The numbers of the expedition are so reduced that the expediency of withdrawing it until better weather is being discussed.

RETRENCHMENT.

It would appear that the meteoric rise in gold has roused the Government to some sense of a necessity of adopting stringent measures to inspire confidence, and if this be the fact, we may well say that the semi-panic in the premium is a blessing in disguise. It is rumoured on good authority that the Vice-President and the Minister of Finance have resolved to take ten millions of the year's budget off expenditure, and this news, we may add, produced the very best impression on the market, although the amount of the retrenchment is like a drop of water in the ocean. We must confess that the action of the Executive is tardy, and it would have been more statesmanlike if retrenchment had been resorted to from the very beginning of the year: it would have been more dignified if some measures had been taken in anticipation, to provide against such emergencies as the present. In the opinion of the market, however, not even a retrenchment of fifty per cent in the Budget will have much effect on the premium. Some much more radical measures must be adopted to make a clean sweep of the present system. Sooner or later, this year or next year, but come it must, the Executive will be obliged to force all State Banks into liquidation. People are now convinced of the necessity of such a step with regard to all State Banks, not even excepting the National Bank or Buenos Ayres Provincial Bank. Minister Pacheco should send to Congress next May a Bill providing that all banks of issue must convert their notes at sight within a term of two years or close their doors. This may be termed a heroic measure, but it is not: it is simply a banking precept of the simplest and most rational kind; for it is more than preposterous that Banks should pay divid ends when they actually repudiate their notes. We must give up, once and for ever, this game at cross purposes; it is an imposition that the people can no longer tolerate. It is at variance with the commonest notions of justice; it is a sarcasm on our banking system, and without delay a more rational method must be adopted to throw the full responsibility of paper-issue on the banks and save the public from loss. In no other country in the world would banks be allowed to pay yearly dividends as in this country; the very banks in fact, are to-day interested in the actual repudiation of their notes. Could any banking system be more fatal? The time has come to put an end to this, and the market appeals to Dr. Pacheco for redress, that all these state banks may be called to order and obliged to increase their reserves, foregoing the fruition of dividends until they are able to pay over the counter one gold dollar for every paper dollar. Should the Minister of Finance hearken to this advice he will establish for himself a financial reputation that will raise him to the highest eminence, not only in the esteem of his countrymen but in that of the world at large.

LONDON LETTER

DEATH OF SIR WILLIAM GULL.

ERNST OF COBURG AND THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND.

(From our own Correspondent)

January 31

The month closes dull. Not even Truth is up to the mark; and now that Mr. Stead has left the Pall Mall Gazette no one seems able to manufacture a sensational heading or paragraph. In fact for some of us the P. M. G. is dead; and one of the daily pleasures of life extinct. My news-boy tells me the paper sells as well as ever—"he don't see no difference." Such is the value of a name once earned by the talents of a Greenway, a Morley and a Stead. And specially Stead. Out of the newspaper world few people know or remember that Mr. Stead has left the P. M. G., or that Sir William Hardman no longer edits the Post. Those who have been accustomed to read the Post or the P. M. G., go on buying it. As for this week, I do not think that Mr. Stead himself could have made anything of it. The approaching opening of parliament, a veering wind which gives us a dry day and a wet day alternately, a six per cent rate, steady profits and full work, Barnum and the pantomimes, with no novelties musical or dramatic, coughs, colds, and the remains of the influenza with an occasional exodus of distinguished people, combine to deaden the noise of the social machine subjectively—that is our attention is not drawn to it.

The principal event of the week was the death of the great court physician Sir William Gull. He died very suddenly from a chill which carried him off in two or three days. The weather is most treacherous. It feels warm and at times almost summer-like, but appears to be more dangerous than frosts and snow, and especially to elderly people. Sir William Gull seems to have been in many respects a man much out of the common. Firstly he was what is called a "self-made man," which in business is not necessarily a proof of extraordinary talent, but in the medical profession it is rare and means something. As a mere boy and of very humble origin he was patronized for sake of his smartness and good looks, by the governor of Guy's hospital, who made an apothecary's assistant of him. From that menial office he worked his way up in the profession and was still a week ago the idol of the hospital students, the terror of medical prigs and common-place practitioners and the favourite of courts and "salons" where his literary tastes, his wit and philosophic views of things in general were as much appreciated as what wags call his "mint-sauce cure" for rheumatism and his general therapeutical nihilism. The ladies liked him. He had a profound look, and his remedies were pleasant and his physic most agreeable to the taste. "In thought", we are told, "he was a disciple of Spinoza." This "thought" business is growing, and I expect to see on—I will not say tombstones — but on cenotaphs in crematories, a mere name, a date and a sect of "thought" or philosophy. "John Smith, disciple of Spurgeon," "Thomas Jones, theosophist," and so on. Why at present are those matters obtruded on the notice of the public? As long as the world is Christian a man is supposed to die a Christian and be buried with Christian rites. If every one is to know that John Smith, deceased, was a follower of Madame Blavatsky's and Colonel Olcott's, the clergy are perfectly justified in refusing to bury him—and it will come to that, as in France, where the dead and their surviving friends have the courage of their opinions. But here swells like Sir William Gull and the poet Browning must of course be sung and prayed over according to the rubric. It is an unsatisfactory state of things. A religion exists or it does not.

There is, by the way, something rather sensational from Germany. It refers to a pamphlet said to have been written by the Duke of Coburg, rating the Queen of England for interfering in the affairs of Germany. The subject is almost too interesting to spoil by condensation. I therefore take the whole account of the affair as given by the correspondent of an evening paper. He says:—

'It is seldom that the German Reichstag is electrified by such a speech as that of Prince Carolath-Schonaich's on Saturday last, To Prince Bismarck, hurling Olympian thunderbolts, and to the Social-Democrats calling down fire from heaven on their oppressors, the German Parliament is accustomed. But that a conservative Prince and magnate, holding office under the Government, and belonging to the Prussian army, should quote from the speech of a Social-Democrat Deputy—not to hold it up to reprobation, but to beg that attention might be paid to what he had said, was so unprecedented an event, that the last Triennial German Parliament closed with a veritable "éclat". The pamphlet entitled "Mitregenten und fremde Hande in Deutschland,'(co-regents and foreign interference in Germany), to which Prince Carolath-Schonaich referred was published anonymously in 1886. It has long been suspected who was the author of this pamphlet, as well as of another entitled "Another Programme of the Ninety-nine Days", which appeared immediately after the death of the Emperor Frederick, but a certain unlucky Dr. Harmening, more bold than wise, who ventured to state in print that it was the Duke of Coburg, has had to pay for his temerity by six months' imprisonment in a fortress. Warned by this experience, Herr Dietz, Social-Democrat deputy, from whose speech Prince Carolath-Schonaich quotes, contents himself with saying that the pamphlet is attributed to a "certain Ernst, living in Coburg or Gotha," and he declaims against the injustice of a Government which takes no steps whatever to discover and punish the author of such insults to the Queen and her nearest relatives in Germany, while the most harmless productions of Social-Democrats are suppressed, and burned, and confiscated on the score of their tending to "stir up class hatred." "Noblesse oblige" evidently has no meaning for this "Ernst" of Coburg, who assumed the mask of the anonymous pamphleteer in order to insult the ladies of his family who have been his constant friends. Prince Carolath-Schonaich talks of "coverts attacks" and "insinuations," but the following extracts from the pamphlet will show that the accusations of its author leave nothing to be desired in the matter of plainness and directness:—

"There are still too many strange hands employed in shuffling the cards of German affairs... It is well known that the importance of women in the history of the world has never been appreciated at its full value; and this is doubtless the reason why we have always had, and always shall have, to make new experiences in this field... The unhappy fate of the Empress Eugenie and her policy seemed to teach the lesson that ladies cannot effect much single-handed in the domain of politics. In order to attain great results, they require sisterly or daughterly assistance, a family union, a working together of many hands, a "concert a quatre", a warp and woof, mutual comprehension and assistance. There probably never was a Sovereign in so favourable a position as regards numerous alliances in Germany as Queen Victoria is now; but although German politics have borne for the last forty years the most remarkable evidences of female influence, it is in the highest degree astonishing that so little fuss is made about it. Has it become so much a matter of course, that it now belongs to the ordinary machinery of Federal politics?... The intercourse between Germany and England has grown remarkably like those diplomatic relations which existed in last century between Austria and France after Maria Theresa had married her unfortunate daughter to the Crown Prince Louis. The foolish diplomatic despatches which were exchanged at that time between Vienna and Paris may now very likely be read with a smile as things of a kind no longer possible; but perhaps it is not so much the contents as the addresses of this correspondence that have altered, and the important communications have merely changed the archives in which they were wont to be placed. In any case, the Queen of England has managed to secure to herself by these means an influence on the German courts which is more encroaching and enduring than the former Russian preponderance... Her relations to the Courts of Coburg and Hanover were so close and intimate, that it is not difficult to see how she came to persuade herself that she was really a ruling member of the German Federation... The Queen may have felt great pride in attaining the title of Empress of India, but she only experienced genuine inner satisfaction when she was listened to, heeded, and obeyed in Hanover, Darmstadt, Gotha, and Berlin... The Queen of England cannot, it is true, march troops into Germany, like her ancestors the Georges of Hanover; but all that a foreign Sovereign without an army can attain by means of daughters, grandchildren, cousins, special envoys and agents —both male and female— of this nothing has been left undone."

"Examples such as this might be multiplied, but enough has been quoted to show why an honourable German nobleman felt "bound to draw the attention of the Government to the pamphlet in question, so that the English people may not have in their power to suspect that baseless insinuations against her Britannic Majesty can be propagated and tolerated in Germany."

MEMS FROM EUROPE.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

A NOVEL SUGGESTION.

It is not improbable that a mild sensation may be caused by a pamphlet just issued in Paris by Colonel Stoffel, a gentleman whose reports on the efficiency of the German army might have acted as a warning to Napoleon III. not to begin the fatal war of 1870. The gallant Colonel now forcibly argues in favor not merely of a rapprochement between France and Germany, but of an offensive and defensive alliance, with a view of keeping in check the ambitious designs of Russia, and of preventing her seizing the Danubian Principalities. But that consummation, he considers, can come to pass in Germany only by disarming the present hostility of France. The only way of doing this is for the Berlin Cabinet to return to France Alsace and Lorraine. The Colonel is evidently a sanguine sort of gentleman. He thinks Count Moltke was responsible for the cession of Alsace-Lorraine, and he wonders why Prince Bismarck did not veto it. It is not improbable that Prince Bismarck would rather that the annexation had been "vetoed;" but he is not now likely to be favorable to giving back the territory thus acquired.

In connection with this matter, Colonel Stoffel relates how the German Chancellor on one occasion gave him an account of the trouble he had in inducing King William to make peace with Austria after Sadowa. The Prussians were burning to enter Vienna when suddenly Napoleon III. offered his intervention. The almost universal opinion was in favor of the rejection of this proposal, even at the risk of war with France and fresh trouble with Hanover, Bavaria, Wurtemburg, and other States. Count Moltke sat up one night and drew up a plan of campaign. Of the 600,000 men under arms 200,000 would have been sent to the Rhine, the remainder confronting Austria and the smaller States. Prince Bismarck was roundly abused because he advocated the conclusion of peace, and he heard himself stigmatised as a "traitor." The Crown Prince was one of his warmest opponents, and one day, as Bismarck was going to the King, they met in a corridor. The Crown Prince, pretending to stumble over his sword, dealt Bismarck a hard blow with it on the legs, by way of displaying his anger and contempt. Then in a letter which the King wrote at his request to Bismarck he said that he consented to the conclusion of "this disgraceful peace" These facts were related by Prince Bismarck to Colonel Stoffel two years afterwards, and the author asks how it happened that in 1871 the Chancellor did not forsee the results of the surrender of Alsace Lorraine.

GREAT COMMERCIAL VENTURE

THE TRADE OF THE DANUBE.

The Exchange Telegraph Company is enabled to state that the negotiations which have been carried on for some time in London for the formation of a gigantic Company for the navigation of the Danube and Save, in competition with the Austrian Staamshift Gesellshaft and the Russian Naratchine Society, have at last had a successful result. The new Company will be started with the help of English, American, and Roumanian funds. The work which it will undertake includes the destruction of the rocks at the mouth of the Danube, as provided by Treaty; and upon that the sum of £800,000 is to be spent. Ships of a better construction can then be employed on the river. About £2,000,000 sterling is to be spent in ship building, and it is understood that a large proportion of this will be sent to the Tyne. The new Company will be authorized by the Roumanian and Servian Governments to levy tolls upon ships using the improved waterway. The scheme has been brought to a successful issue, in spite of the continued opposition of the Austrian Government. On the other hand, the Russian Government is decidedly in its favour, and Germany does not oppose it.

CITY NOTES.

HEAVY LOSSES AT LLOYD'S.

The underwriters at Lloyd's are having painful impressions of the severity of the gales which have been raging. Wrecks have been exceptionally numerous even for this season, and many total losses of valuable vessels and cargoes have been posted. The complete list of casualties will not be known for a long time yet, but it is certain to be very heavy. Very high premiums have been paid on overdue ships, rising to as much as ninety guineas in the case of the Erin which was reported in a disabled condition by an Atlantic liner during the gale.

THE POSITION OF NITRATES.

The want of agreement between the nitrate companies continues, and, what with speculative sales and alarm at the position of the industry, prices remain at a low level. There has been an advance on the lowest quotations, Primitivas having dropped down to 14, and now standing at 15¼; but no one can tell what fluctuations may take place. At the present price of nitrate —that is 8s. 3d. per cwt.—very few of the companies can work profitably, and even if they can cover cost of production, their property is being exhausted, and sooner or later there must be a catastrophe. The Rosario Company is quite ready, we understand, to enter into an arrangement to restrict production so as to equalize supply and demand, but they insist that their exceptionally favorable position should be taken into consideration in fixing the quotas for each 'oficina'. A remunerative price would be 9s.6d. per cwt, and while that would pay the companies, it would not check consumption. At a higher figure other manures would come into competition with nitrate. There is very little doubt that more regard is paid by some at least of those who control these companies to the Stock Exchange quotation than to the real interests of the industry.

THE PROPOSED CHINA CLAY UNION

The China Clay Union is hanging fire, and it is doubtful whether it will come off. Up to the present, at any rate, some of the largest mine-owners have held aloof, and without them no union would be effective A capital of at least two millions would be necessary to buy up the properties in Cornwall and Devon. China clay has a much wider use than in the production of earthenware. Very large quantities are used in the making of paper, in the bleaching and sizing of calicoes, and for other purposes. The production last year is estimated at 450,000 tons, about half of which is exported. Almost every country in the world receives supplies from England, the foreign mines being quite inadequete to meet the demand abroad.

BUENOS AIRES.

The City of "Good Air." Well, perhaps, it was once, say three hundred years ago. But in this the early portion of the year of Grace 1890 it is assuredly of all cities (except Rio, Naples and Cologne) preeminent in evil odours. Wherefore, oh Argentines! proceed to the execution of your drainage plans with all possible despatch and drive not the stranger to the belief that guano is your principal industry. Be not discouraged. Melbourne, your great Australian rival in rapid progress, has as yet no system of water-sewerage, though she is making every effort to overtake Sydney, her great rival, in this all-important sanitary matter. It is only a question of a little energy and a good deal of money. The former, I believe, you possess, the latter you can, I presume, easily borrow. So, in the name of all that is sanitary, go ahead with the sewerage.

An Australian, accustomed to the wide, well-paved streets of Australian towns, is naturally not very favourably impressed with the narrow, cobble-stoned thoroughfares here. But of course, one has to remember that Buenos Ayres is a very old city, built at a time when street-traffic was but small, and when the shade afforded by tall houses and narrow lanes was deemed of paramount importance. Sydney, the oldest of the Australian towns, was at first built in the same way. But the Sydney people, years ago, saw the mistake, and have been steadily rebuilding their city according to modern ideas. It is expensive work, "mais que voulez-vous?", mistakes must be paid for. I have often heard the opinion expressed that, even if the streets in Buenos Aires cannot yet be widened, still the paving might be improved. How? Certainly not by substituting wood or asphalte which, after rain, are most dangerous in narrow thoroughfares. In such streets the only chance of avoiding collision lies in ability to stop at a moment's notice. I have hundreds of times seen horses sliding upon their haunches fully twenty feet, both upon asphalte and wood, before they could stop. During what drivers call "greasy" weather, i. e. after rain or mist, both wood and asphalte afford no grip to the horse's shoe. So also in pulling a heavy load, the animal has next to no power. So until means be found to widen the streets here very considerably, my advice is leave asphalte and wood alone. By the way, how wonderfully well the drivers here work their teams. Reins and whip alone could not do it. I have many times watched a leader picking his way through a crowd of vehicles in obedience to the various tones of his master's voice. People of English race generally regard it as a sort of indisputable fact that foreigners are bad drivers. I defy the most prejudiced Englishman to visit Buenos Ayres and retain this opinion.

The Hotels, so important an item to a stranger, are not worthy so considerable a metropolis. It must indeed be a subject for wonder that so profitable a field for investment should so long have been neglected. Something after the style of the London Hotel Metropole, which reminds us that an effort has recently been made to copy the London palace. There is in Buenos Ayres a Hotel Metropole, supplied with bath-rooms, real water closets, etc., on each floor. I do not, for obvious reasons, say what street it is on. But it is a move in the right direction.

If Buenos Ayres upon the first day of my arrival did not very favorably impress me, what shall I say of my first night? Shall I say that I was agreeably surprised? Not strong enough. Amazed? Still too weak. I can think of no one word capable of expressing the mental revulsion I underwent that first night. And let me here remark parenthetically, that I had but recently left Paris during the very zenith of the closing fetes of the Exhibition, and London in its perhaps more impressive grandeur. Consequently my eyes were not likely to be dazzled by mere glitter. Yet I confess candidly that I was never so astonished in all my life and travels as I was by "Buenos Ayres under the gas-lights." I chanced to dine with a fellow-passenger, an old resident here, and expressed my opinion rather strongly and not very favorably upon the metropolis of the South. My friend agreed in my condemnation of the smells and narrow streets, but accused me of harping too long upon those two strings.

"They are the only two things I have noticed as yet," I replied. "No doubt I shall discover a few more architectural beauties, like that old barn of a Church round the corner where they beat the tocsin instead of ringing a bell, and a few more smells in course of time."

You see I was in rather a bad humor, disappointed with a city which I had travelled so far to see. But my friend only smiled and proposed a stroll, in order that I might learn the whereabouts of the principal streets. "Shall we take revolvers and lanterns with us in this land of bowie-knives and pitfalls?" I enquired grimly. "Unnecessary," was the retort. "Would to Heaven indeed that Englishmen could be induced to practice a little of the politeness which you will find amongst all classes out here."

So we sallied forth. My guide was a thorough diplomatist and shaped his course with great skill so as to produce the greatest possible final effect. Along Reconquista for several blocks and then a turn to the right down a steep, rough street towards the river. Here are paused.

"So," said I, "this is what you brought me out to see, is it?"

"Not all", he replied. "But it may interest you to learn that the ground in front of you, which I fear you cannot see very well in this light, has been reclaimed at great expense and———."

"D—your reclaimed land!" I cried: "Do you suppose I have travelled twenty thousand miles, from Sydney here, to stare at a black outline that you say is reclaimed land? But I quite understand. You wish to impress me with an idea of the energy of the Argentine people. I can only regret that they have not devoted a portion of it to improving their rockey wilderness of a city. Let us return to our hotel I have just discovered a fresh smell down here of unprecedented strength and virulence."

So we retraced our steps for a short distance, when I noticed we were taking a direction leading away from the hotel. A few more squares, a few turnings and I notice great improvement in our surroundings and expressed a favorable opinion to my companion on the shops etc. that we passed.

"How do they compare with Australian shops?" he asked;

Before I had time to reply we came suddenly into the Calle Florida. I stopped short, so short that a pedestrian following me ran into me and apologised politely for my blunder. Right and left of us the street one blaze of light, spanned by gas-lit arches which gave it the appearance of a golden tunnel. Shops, cafes, restaurants, all brilliantly illuminated. Crowds of well-dressed pedestrians, strings of elegant equipages, everywhere life, bustle, glitter.

I could see that my companion greatly enjoyed my evident amazement. He was having the beginning of his revenge, but he took it magnanimously.

"I suppose", said he, "that the streets are too wide for this sort of thing in Australian towns?"

There was a good deal of quiet sarcasm about this remark, but I felt that I deserved it for my previous wholesale condemnation of Buenos Ayres thoroughfares. So I merely answered that the Calle Florida was the prettiest bit of street-lighting I had ever seen in any city. I had a suspicion that the town must be "en fete" this particular night, especially as I afterwards saw several other streets similarly illuminated and every one apparently bent on amusement. However this suspicion I kept to myself for future use.

The shops, especially those of the jewellers, dealers in bric-a-brac, art, furniture etc., seemed to me to vie in the value of their contents at least, with the best houses in Paris or London or New York. I am extremely fond of pretty objects, and as we strolled leisurely along I had ample opportunity of inspecting them in profusion.

Presently we met a fellow passenger like myself "doing" Florida for the first time, and a thorough London man. "Is not this a pretty sight?" I asked him.

"Pretty, Sir!" he exclaimed in an indignant tone. "Do you know that gas coal is here worth some £2. 15. 0 per ton?"

"Possibly", I answered. "But how does that affect strangers like you and me since we don't pay for it?"

"Don't we Sir! Let me tell you that all this waste and extravagance is paid for out of English gold. Why don't we light up London in this useless fashion? Answer me that, Sir!"

"Because," I replied, "Londoners have no appreciation of the Beautiful." Whereupon with a dissatisfied growl my London friend went his way, to ponder doubtless over the sinful extravagance of Argentine municipalities.

At the Plaza Victoria I made a somewhat ludicious mistake: I concluded that it was so named out of compliment to our Queen. When we reached the statue I remarked that, so far as I could judge at night, the likeness was a very bad one, far too classical in outline for H. B. Majesty.

My friend burst into a roar of laughter so hearty and so prolonged that it was some minutes before he could find breath to explain my blunder. When I understood the full absurdity of my mistake I could not refrain from laughing heartily also. And so we were standing upon the scene of an English defeat. Well the Argentines are quite right to be proud of the achievement, for it has not often been accomplished. By the way, I noticed afterwards in daylight that the statue is crumbling to pieces and showing ugly patches of red brick where the plaster has fallen off. Cannot the Republic afford to put up a more respectable looking goddess? Really, my brave Argentines it looks very badly at present. It being past 10 p.m. I was rather surprised when my companion hailed an open victoria and bade me jump in. We were going, he said, for a drive to Palermo—the Hyde Park of Buenos Aires. I thought to myself that a drive even in Hyde Park would be somewhat dreary at 10 p.m., but the prospect of a little fresh air secured my ready assent to the excursion. When after a long drive the electric lamps appeared in the distance, I prepared myself for a fresh surprise—and I got it. Bravo Argentines! the world's inventions are not lost on you! Edison's discovery has done for your Bois de Boulogne what gas has done for Florida. The scene to me seemed to savor of Fairyland, or to be a realisation of some gorgeous transforma tion tableau at Her Majesty's Theatre. And the equipages! The finest workmanship from Long Acre bowling along by the hundred. Horses that would be cheap at Tattersall's at £500 the pair being driven in scores at breakneck speed. Orloff trotters, their black coats gleaming with the unmistakable show of the valuable breed, tearing along, as if trying to break a record. Carriages, horses, harness, as perfect as money can buy. One defect only—the servants' liveries. Certainly, I saw many in perfectly good taste. But the greater number spoilt the general appearance of the splendid equipages. Still, retaining my previous suspicions that this must be some fete day to account for all the gaiety and splendor I had seen, I took an opportunity to quietly question a French waiter at the pretty rustic restaurant as to the truth of my surmise. His reply was quite conclusive. "Mais au contraire, Monsieur, il y a fort peu de monde ici ce soir." So that I was not even seeing Palermo at its best

It had seemed to me that we had an unusually fast pair of horses in our hired carriage. On my way back our driver cracked on his very best pace, but carriage after carriage passed by us as though we were but crawling. Your Argentine rich man cares no more about horseflesh than he does about its cost.

On our return we found the town still brilliantly lit up and the principal streets still crowded. I was, however, incapable of being surprised any more. Had the Lord Mayor suddenly made his appearance in a golden chariot drawn by jaguars, I would have calmly accepted the sight as an every day portion of his duties.

I retired to rest enchanted with the beauty of all that I had seen, but deeply perplexed by the inevitable question which arose in my mind—How is it possible, in the face of such a profusion of wealth on all sides, that the finances of the nation should be in such a tottering condition? and I resolved, forthwith, to study the vexed question of Argentine finance?

Traveller.

WANTED, A REALIZATION.

I am always the one that gets left I fancy; I have been one of the left ones all my life. Nothing I ever hoped or longed for has ever been fully realized.

If one could be simply a machine, not an intelligence; could cease to wonder, cease to speculate, perhaps life would seem more of a realization and not so much the fond delusive dream it does to most of us.

I am always having visions of future happiness, only partially realized; most of them vanish at the approach of the period when I fondly hoped to grasp the reality. Youth came and went, the happiest days I ever spent, but even then, my mind was haunted with the fancied pleasures of a man. I thought that with a more extended sphere for the exercise of my faculties, I should have a wider range for enjoyment, knowledge and pleasure.

I longed to be a man. I felt vexed and chagrined to hear conversations and lectures on subjects of which I knew nothing. I procured books, devoted all my time to study and investigation, and if my anticipations were ever realized they were nearly so, in this instance. To feel the heart's expansion in the bursting lights of poetic and great classical authors; to see the book of Nature unfolding, leaf by leaf; to fall in love and marry, what I surely thought a kindred soul. I seemed indeed now to feel that there was little more to be desired.

But my mind wearied at last, even of this. If I could only stop looking forward. If I could only settle down. If I could only be a machine, even then I feel very certain I should go by jerks.

Then I tried the plunge and bustle of worldly affairs, the realities of real life. With gold at 230 on the Bolsa, I made a strenuous effort to sustain character and maintain a comfortable living at the same time. Impossible!!

Through all this struggle, toil and strife, my heart still clings to days that lie beyond. I still cherish the idea that the tender emotions, charitable and loving thoughts, which all this time have laid locked in my heart may yet find expression.

And what, at sixty, do I see on the shores of time? Do I see a realization of long deferred promises and cherished hopes? Or do I see that life, after all, for the best of us, is but a fond delusive dream. We must have the bribe of hope ever before us, to succeed at all.

Even in the sermons one hears now-a-days, the preacher holds out his plum at the end, spoiling it all. He says, "Do good, do this, do that, serve God, love your neighbor," etc., and then when our natural instincts should lead us to heed his words and be better, he ruins it all by saying, "for great shall be thy reward," etc.

Why should we never be taught anything but a selfish religion? Why should we never have an actual realization of the good instincts God has planted in us all? Why should we be constantly bribed to do what is simply right and just to do? Are we but children, always, ever trying to grasp that which simply ever becomes—wanted, a realization?

Railway Items.

Dr. Araoz, President of the Railway Board, is drawing up the estimates for the Andine Railway, and has informed the Minister of the Interior. He says that he has no books of the Company to guide him, as they were sent to Buenos Ayres a few days before the decree appeared rescinding the contract with Clark and Sanford.

Messrs. Pelaez and Co., concessionaires of the Reconquista and Formosa line, have asked Government to hand them over the lands for the line, as the owners of same refuse to give them unless they are first paid, in direct opposition to Article 96 of the Colonies' Act and Article 16 of the National Lands Sale Act, which provide that, in case of railways, the owners of land bought from Government are not entitled to any indemnity whatever.

"Mr. T. A. Walker's executors have made an arrangement with the Corporation of Preston to resume the dock works at Preston immediately the Corporation gets its money bill through Parliament, and finish the docks in eighteen months. One of the immediate results of the agreement is that one of the new railways converging at Preston is to be forthwith constructed in anticipation of the large traffic which may attend the opening of the dock."

An extraordinary general meeting of the North West Argentine Railway Company, Limited, was held on Thursday, Feb. 6th Mr. E. Woods presiding.

The Chairman explained that their meeting was rendered necessary, in consequence of their last meeting not having been held, in the judgment of the registrar, within the legal number of days fixed by law. Therefore, they had first to rescind the resolution passed at their last meeting and then to propose it again, and, if approved, pass it. The resolution authorising the directors to borrow or raise, for the purposes of the company (in addition to the sum of £350,000 which they have already raised), the further sum of £150,000 was passed.

A special general meeting of the Buenos Ayres and Ensenada Port Railway Company, Limited, was called for the 12th ult. to authorise an increase in the share capital from £1,200,000 to £1,800,000, and a proportionate increase in the debenture capital.

Engineer Wauer has made a report on the condition and service of the F. C. Argentino del Este during the month of Feb last.

The permanent way between Federacion and Mocareta has sustained some slight damage.

Within two days, the reconstruction of the viaduct at kil. 150 will be commenced and a quantity of sleepers on the bridge changed.

The expense for the maintenance of the permanent way for the month of January was $6,561.91, being at the rate of $41.01 per kil. 729,714 tons of goods were carried; also 2,300 passengers.

The service was excellent, the management having dispatched all freight without any delay, and having thoroughly met the requirements of the situation.

Engineer Koronda has sent in his report on the service of the Pacific Railway to the effect that many wagons are in a very bad state, not having been seen to for two years, in spite of the instructions in existence ordering all rolling-stock to be submitted for inspection every year. He also complains of serious irregularities on the part of the traffic manager.

Dr. Araoz, head of the Railway Board, has returned from Rio Cuarto, where he took over the Andine Railway, which is again in government hands. He speaks in high terms of Mr. Romby, the manager, who gave him every assistance. The stores, workshops etc. of the line are in a wretched state, and so is the permanent way. Mr. Cortinez is now in charge, and his well-known energy will, no doubt, soon set matters right.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Contrary to their custom, the thermometer and goldometer went different ways yesterday; the first went up and the second down. All kinds of reassuring rumours were afloat, and people in general recovered a little from the fright of Monday. There was a long Cabinet Council in Vice-President Pellegrini's house, and Retrenchment all along the line was its key-note. This had a good effect, and the people breathed more freely.

Those who travel by the Anglo Argentine Tramway should bear in mind that its cars now go Westward Ho? by Calle Victoria instead of Rivadavia.

The spirited and witty series of articles that appeared last month in the Diario from the pen of Mr. Julius Popper, the pioneer mining King and explorer of Tierra del Fuego, have been published by him in a pamphlet, which we strongly recommend to those who enjoy genuine humour and exciting adventure. We understand that the pamphlet will appear shortly in English and French.

The death of Don Pedro Luro, at Cannes, was announced yesterday by cable and caused general regret. Deceased has left an enormous fortune.

The thermometer touched 88 Fahrt. yesterday, and the heat was rather oppressive. The equinox is not far off now, and then for the finest season under the sun—the River Plate autumn.

We find the following queer paragraph in an exchange:—"The horse ridden by Gen. Deodoro, on the 15th November, is to be purchased by the officers of the 1st cavalry, who propose to preserve it as a memento. That ridden by Bocayuva, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, has been purchased by Conde de San Salvador de Matozinhos, who will permit the animal to enjoy a life of ease and dignity."

Mr. Bocayuva and his family left yesterday in the Venus for Montevideo, where they will take the Portugal for Rio to-morrow.

The fire in a drug store and boot concern in Calle Rivadavia on Monday night caused the usual fuss and alarm, but we believe the damage was not very great.

Lord Mayor (ad interim) Bollini intends to apply rigorously while in the City Chair the bye-law fining those who leave their 'vasura' boxes outside the hall-door at night, to save the servants the trouble of early rising.

"What's going on inside?" inquired a gentleman of the ticket seller at the entrance to a public hall. "An amateur performance" replied the latter. "The audience seem to be having a good time; I heard the shouts of laughter four blocks away. What's the play?" "Hamlet," was the unexpected reply.

There was doleful news from Bahia Blanca yesterday. The dredges sent to remove the Naposta sand bar are said not to worth a fig, being as old as the bank they are vainly trying to deal with. Dredging and port and park making, and all such expensive amusements will have to stand over everywhere, even at Bahia Blanca, till times mend. There is not a copper to buy new dredges.

A great four-round boxing contest came off in Glasgow on February 7th, between Mace and Mitchell, when the latter, who is no less than thirty years younger than his rival, had no difficulty in winning. Youth will be served!

The biography recently published of His Holiness the Pope says, amongst other interesting things, that for the last forty years the Pontiff has used the same quill pen (plucked from a pigeon) when signing documents. Since he became Pope he takes particular care of this wonderful pen, for which he has an ivory case. For everyday work his Holiness uses a gold pen.

The poet is born, not made The poetess is born and maid too.

In reply to a query from classic Quilmes asking if the railway from here to that place was not the first laid in this country, we beg to say that it was not. The Western of Buenos Ayres was the first.

There will be grand doings at New Scotland (not 'stern and wild' like the old one) on Sunday next, when Mr. Coaker, who runs the new colony for Captain Shand, will give a paseo and pic-nic to the lands, to let intending buyers see what they are like. We understand they are some of the best in the province. The auction will come off on Sunday week.

The American Miller (no doubt quite as jolly a fellow as his British brother who lived on the river Dee) tells us follows of Emperor William's peculiar taste in the way of daily bread:—"The German emperor is fond of variety even in such matters as his daily bread. He takes for breakfast a small white loaf the top of which is powdered over with salt, and which accordingly goes by the name of salt bun. After it he consumes a half-penny bun, known as the "Luck eye." For his sandwiches he requires yet another kind of bread, made of the finest Vienna flour, and baked till the outside, which is afterwards cut off, is quite black. At dinner, with the soup, so called "broth sticks" are served. They are made after an Italian recipe, which is the secret of the court bakers."

The Patria Italiana, in a brisk leader in reference to the upward course of the gold premium on Monday, says that it rested for the night at milestone number 168, after a dash to 172 and back, just to see if the road to 200 is in good order.

The same paper announces a jolly row in the Italian Chambers on Monday in reference to a pension for the widowed Duchess of Aosta and the present Duke. It appears that Deputy the Duke of Puglie (Dukes are so plentiful in Italy that they return them to sit in the Commons), introduced some very delicate question into the debate, with the result of raising such a tremendous ruction that the President had to suspend the sitting. The telegram does not even hint at what the delicat question was.

Red ties and handkerchiefs are now the fashion in Montevideo, at leas they were during the election hubbub and jollification, and may remain "la moda" for some time. Happily the days when such emblems were signs of strife and bloodshed are passed for ever in Uruguay: they are as harmless as the primrose at home.

The Telegrafo Maritimo takes leave of Mazzantini and his bull-fighters, declaring that he is a good riddance, and hoping to see no more bull-fighting in B. O. All civilized Christians in the Plate will re-echo this wish.

The luminous fountains at the Pasatiempo are attracting crowds every night. The thing is very well done indeed, although the stage is so small.

The Revd. Dr. James Smith, A.M. will preach on Sunday next at 11 a.m., in the Protestant Church, Quilmes; and on the following Sunday at noon, at the Cabaña, district of Cañuelas.

We sincerely regret to hear of the sudden death on Saturday last, at his estancia in Salto, of Mr Thomas Kenny, who had been suffering for some time from heart disease. The funeral was largely attended, showing how many friends deceased had. We offer his widow and his family our condolence on their sad bereavement.

The Immigration Returns for February saw the light yesterday—12,444. This is a great decline on last February. The decrease in the two first months of the year is 17,000, a truly formidable figure. Free homestead grants of the 24,000 leagues, instead of selling them to speculators, would be the right thing to prevent a "degringolade" in immigration similar to that in stocks, shares, land and houses.

But for the government ordering the National Bank to advance some cash to the Municipality, there might have been a row in the city, as there was not a copper in the till wherewith to pay salaries and wages! Where are we going to?

Telegrams from Cordoba, published yesterday, say that wild alarm exists there owing to the spring upwards in gold. Nobody pays his debts now in Cordoba, fearing that he will be left without a cent to pay for marketing. This is a queer state of things in the city of doctors of law, medicine and divinity.

The Engineers' Department has reported against the Calviño project for a port at Cape San Antonio. It is the rankest absurdity to even dream of fresh public outlay on ports or anything else in the present calamitous state of affairs.

Late at the Observatory: "Please tell me where I am to go. I was invited to see the transit of Venius." "I am extremely sorry, madam, but you are too late. The transit was over fifteen minutes ago." "Oh, that's no matter. The Superintendent is a friend of mine, I am sure he will have it done again for me."

Another sign of the times is the fact that all the young lawyers and doctors who threw briefs and physic to the dogs a few years ago, to take to what they were pleased to term "business" ("id est" the wildest speculation) are now groping about amongst the said canine tribe to see if they can find what they so foolishly threw away in their search for sudden wealth.

Although we have no mummified cats in this country, we have far too many live ones, and the following paragraph from the South American Journal suggests a new source of revenue for this country: But perhaps a cat is of no use as manure unless it be mummified for a couple of thousand years:—"It is to be hoped that the discovery in Egypt of a considerable deposit of embalmed cats will not add to the sorrows of the nitrate shareholders by leading to serious competition with that fertiliser. Be this as it may, it is, undoubtedly, interesting to learn that a consignment has reached this country of 19½ tons of mummified feline matter, consisting of about 180,000 cats, which are said to have been sold at £3 13s. 9d. per ton, whereas nitrate cannot be disposed of at a profit for less than about £9 in this market. A great deal, of course, will depend on the extent of this supply of cats."

We have to thank Messrs. Jacobsen and Co. for sending us the January and February numbers of "Lippencott's (Philadelphia), one of the best of the American magazines, and a distinctive feature of which is, that each number contains a complete story. The matter is of the highest class and most varied; and we can recommend the magazine to those who have not yet seen it.

The Pacific steamer Oratava left several "suspicious" cases on Flores Island. We hope they will stay there. Anything in the way of disease now added to Argentina's troubles would completely upset the coach.

The expediency of a monster public meeting in the Plaza Victoria, to give Government a bit of the nation's mind on the present state of affairs, is mooted. There is too much froth and rhetoric about public meetings here to do much good in the present emergency.

CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE

Advice to Invalids.—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by D. J. Collis Brown, (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russel Street, Bloomsbury, London Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan; but all over the East. As a remedy for general utility, we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are so sorry to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances "ad infinitum" of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhoea and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhoea, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm Conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate Breach of Faith on the part of the Chemist to prescribe and Patient alike. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes and Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain. His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.
Caution.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne, was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of Chlorodine; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which he regretted to say, had been sworn to,—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.
Sold in bottles at 1s. 1 1/2d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
Caution.—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.

THE STANDARD, printed and published every morning at the STANDARD Printing Office, No. 176 Calle Maipu. —Editors and Proprietors· M. G. & E. T. MULHALL.

At a late hour it was known that the Cabinet Council had decided to reduce the Budget expenses by ten millions, and to burn the notes ordered by Congress to be withdrawn. The Finance Minister had a long conference with Mr. Sastre, President of the National Bank, in reference to the latter subject, and in two or three days a very important decree in reference to the finances of the country may be expected.

The market wore such a vastly improved aspect at the second hour that the rumour of a change in the government gained ground, although no confirmation or decided news on the point was known. Various names were spoken of in connection with a new cabinet, and all good men, but it is too premature yet to hazard even a conjecture about the changes that are spoken of. One thing is certain, and that is that a change in the government would be most acceptable to the market.

With regard to the business done, it was not heavy. In all, considerably under a million gold changed hands, but there was more willingness to sell, and this, combined with the fall in prices—twenty-five points since yesterday—set the market rolling into more or less a normal groove again. Stocks responded to the re-action with a general rally, National Bank shares advancing to 142, Catalinas to 34, and L and K Cedulas to 64, but Constructors kept weak, closing neglected at 38.

With regard to this stock, it was rumored to-day that a former director who was mainly instrumental in raising up the bank's fortunes when shattered during the memorable "krach" of 1888, was called in again to assist the sinking ship, but has not yet decided to accept. It will be good news for the shareholders should he do so, as his name is a guarantee that the bank will be in sound hands. It is a growing conviction in the market that the concern would be all the better for a change in the board.

The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—

The death of Don Pedro Luro, so well known in this market, was announced to-day, causing general regret. The deceased gentleman was a worker of the hardest type, and to him the south of this province is largely indebted for his efforts towards opening it up to commercial life. Mr. Luro died whilst travelling in Europe, at the ripe age of 70. One of his sons fills an important post on the board of the Provincial Bank.

In exchange there is practically nothing doing, as there are no takers in the market. Rates were quoted the same as yesterday, and the Provincial Bank draws at 47d. whilst the National Bank draws in paper at the market rate.

The proposed changes in Government policy are broadly supposed to be reduction in the national expenditure, launching of an internal loan, and a settlement of the Municipal finances. No doubt these measures are all of paramount importance. A reduction in the budget has been sighed for at every fresh advance of gold since 150; foreign loans are universally condemned, and lastly, matters municipal are in such a terrible plight that it will require a financial Hercules to clear out this Augean muddle. It is well known that the Vice-President is in favour of retrenchment. If he is backed up by the Cabinet, public opinion will achieve the rest, and we shall witness the glorious sight of what a return of confidence can effect.

The National Bank has been ordered to open a further credit for the Municipality, as everything is at a block for want of money.

The wheat crop of this country fell off so considerably in 1889 that large quantities were brought from Odessa and Genoa. During the first nine months of the year the exports amounted to 15,455 tons, as against 172,353 tons for the corresponding period of 1888. The progress of agriculture is illustrated by the fact of 32,329 ploughs having been imported in 9 months of 1889, as compared with 26,950 in the whole of 1888, and 17,585 in the whole of 1887. One thousand seven hundred and seventy-two reaping machines were imported from January 1, 1889, to September 30, 1889, as against 2.048 in 1888, and 1,434 in 1887. No wonder that the English agricultural implement manufacturers have been working day and night in order to satisfy the demand for the River Plate.

The fifth ordinary general meeting of the Argentine Steam Lighter Company was held on the 29th January at Liverpool, the report and balance-sheet being presented and approved. After providing for depreciation, the receipts for the past year exceeded the expenditure by over £5971, which, added to £145 brought forward from the previous year, gives £6116. A dividend of twenty-five shillings per share, equal to twelve and a half per cent gold was declared and £110 left over for the new account. It is worthy of note that the company last year had only four lighters working, while this year they have six, which will enable them to do a larger business and pay an even better dividend than that just declared. The following is the balance sheet:—

NUEVA ESCOCIA

On March 16th next an auction will be held in this city, of lots inside the municipal limits, and also of quintas and chacras of this new town destined to prove itself another nucleus of industry and population.

Nueva Escocia is situated on the banks of the River Uruguay, in the camp belonging to Don Gmo. Shand (formerly Parker and Grenfell) and distant six leagues only from Concordia.

The fertility of these lands is notorious.

The National Government has just finished a port on the same land, with offices of customs duties, guard house, post, telegraph, etc., all the steamships on the Uruguay being obliged to put in there. This port will be the point of embarkation for all the produce of the Yerua Colony and the other establishments of the South and South-East of the Department, no other being in existence between Concordia and Villa Colon.

This town is drawn out in manzanas of 190 metres by 100 with streets 15 metres wide, the quintas being 16 hectareas, or say 400 metres by 400 metres and divided into four equal parts, with roads of 20 metres.

Purchasers who desire to build immediately can have bricks allotted to them at cost price, half a million already being on the camp.

Lately excavations have been made with the object of ascertaining the existence of calcareous stone, with the result that well informed persons say they have come across it of an excellent quality on the same bank of the river. Invitations will soon be sent out to all those interested in forming the acquaintance of this picturesque part of the country, and the plans of the projected town and colony of

ON 'CHANGE.

PRICE OF GOLD TO-DAY.
First Ring............ 249 00
Second Ring........... 248.50

Wednesday, March 5th.

There were decided signs of a revival in business at the first hour. Sellers of gold were plentiful all round, and there was even a better feeling in stocks, which completely changed the appearance of the market and gave it more tone and activity. In gold, over a million and a quarter dollars changed hands, the cash price opening at 246.50, fluctuating between 252.50 and 248 and closing with sellers at 249; for end of month a fair business was also done between 250 and 255, closing at 252, but it was said that lower rates than the closing one could be got. For Saturday the quotation fell away to 247.50, and for other dates small sums changed hands at 249. In stocks nothing very important was done, but there was a general rally in National Bank Shares, Catalinas and Constructors, the quotations closing at 142, 39 and 45 respectively. Cedulas were also more buoyant, though the demand was not heavy, and the series all round improved. In the other stocks nothing was done.

The Argentine barque Borlasco, chartered by the Rio Negro Salt Company, Limited, and bound from Patagones to Buenos Aires with a cargo of salt, hides and wool, was overtaken on the 26th ult. by a furious gale and driven ashore between Cafre and Pavon. She was so battered by the storm that all hopes of getting her afloat were abandoned, the hides and wool being taken off in some vessels which went to her assistance. The salt had to be left behind.

Catalinas Shares were in better demand to-day, and the large sale of three manzanas to some of our principal "almaceneros" must materially improve this stock. The following are the particulars of this important business:—The Catalinas Company has sold three manzanas at the price of 60 m/n per vara cuadrada, payable in 10 years with 7 o/o interest. The company to build "almacenes" for the buyers, who are to repay the outlay in four years with 10 o/o interest. The company guarantees the purchasers that the Central Station of the railways is to be in the immediate vicinity of the land purchased. The shares of the Catalinas Company will be accepted in payment and at par. The following are the buyers:—
L. Logegaray and Co.
Garcia, Palacios and Co.
M. Z. Rojas and Co.
Palledo and Co.
Condo and Co.
F. Gutierrez and Co.
Goyeneche and Co.
Necol Hermanos and Co.

The sale of 3000 National Bank Shares at afterhours yesterday at 140 is reported, but we believe not marked on the blackboard.

Mr. T. Gahan, who arrived up from Montevideo to-day, was welcomed on 'Change. He reports everything improving down there and Dr. Herrera the most popular man in Montevideo.

The sale of 200 certificates of the Banco de Italia at 40 gold, 10 o/o paid, is reported. This shows an improvement of 5 gold on last sale.

Mr. Sewell, who arrived up from Curumalan, was welcomed. He says it rained out there, camps look well, and new French colonists arriving daily at Pigue.

The great news on 'Change to-day was the negotiation of the one and one-half million sterling loan by the National Bank with the syndicate of European bankers. The following compose the syndicate:—
Cahen d'Anvers.
Heine y C.
Banque Imperiale Ottomane, of Paris.
L'Imperial Ottoman Bank, of London.
Comptoir National d'Escompte, of Paris.
Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas.
Societé Generale, of Paris.
Desconte Gesellschaft, of Berlin.
Norddeustche Bank, of Hamburg.
M. S. Bleichroeder, of Berlin, and—
Sal Oppenhein Jun, Co., of Cologne

The Bank has 15 months to repay the advance if the bankers decline to take the bonds. Interest and commission 7 per cent, no broker. Vice President Pellegrini did the business direct with the bankers. This business must necessarily prove a great help to the market at the moment, as exchange was dropping away fast.

Mr. A. P. Bell, who has arrived from Europe, was welcomed on 'Change. He holds many valuable concessions granted him last Congress.

Mr. J. N. Bouwer, representative of Messrs. Baring Brothers, is expected up from Montevideo in the morning.

It is reported that Mr. Seeber has just mortgaged to the National Bank 200,000 square metres in Villa Catalina, close to the Rosario railroad, for 250,000 dollars m/n gold, which is a very large business.

Advices from Rosario announce that 53 commercial "pagarés" were protested yesterday. The Custom House receipts for February shew a falling off as compared with those of same month in 1889, as can be seen from the following table:—

Liquidation of importations	$423,118	$697,570
Collected during the month............	448,050	703,159
Imports subject to duty	1'008,883	1,520,899
Imports free of duty	667,581	859 920
Exports free of duty	2,321,371	506,138
Exports to Bolivia..	89,251	133,558

Thus showing a balance against this year all along the line.

The steamer 'Clapeyron' from London, which went ashore on the Montevidean coast near to Flores Island, has been floated successfully and has reached Montevideo. The salvage services rendered will form the subject of a general average.

More signs of the times were reported to-day. At the auction of the Contro-Agricola chacras of the Carrie estancia at Junin held a few days ago not a single lot could be disposed of. At Rojas chacras for agriculture are offering at 8 dollars and no one to take them, although last year they were snapped up at 11 and 12 dollars. Maize is reported such a drug that the es-
